

YOUR IT PARTNERS FOR MANUFACTURING

In manufacturing, productivity and quality are intrinsically linked to the competence of your IT system. The stronger your network, the better your business will perform.

Linten Technologies can partner up with your company to provide bespoke IT solutions. Whether you specialise in food processing, metal work, automobile parts or any other area of manufacturing, our IT experts can create a strategy exclusively for you.

Process Management

Effective process management demands fluidity from one end to the next. The tiniest communication mishap can cause countless problems later down the production line.

Linten can help you keep process management procedures simple and effective. We strive to ensure everything remains integrated and connected – resulting in a streamlined system that guarantees end-to-end visibility.

Security

With cybercrime on the rise, it is more important than ever to take all the necessary security steps to protect your data from hackers.

The likes of CAD drawings, formulas and financial information require the best possible level of protection. At Linten, we lock up and back up your precious data – meaning you're never at risk of losing it forever.

Support

Every manufacturing line ought to function like a well-oiled machine. If your tech is outdated or your system is vulnerable, there's always the chance that operations could grind to a halt.

Linten provide proactive maintenance and support to ensure your system is constantly firing on all cylinders. If there are ever any issues, we address them immediately to minimise downtime and keep your business running at maximum capacity.

Our IT professionals immerse themselves in the manufacturing environment to gain an intimate understanding of how your operations work. This allows us to tailor our IT solutions accordingly, building the best possible system for you.
