

YOUR IT PARTNERS FOR PROPERTY

Communications and data reign supreme in the property sector. Securing these is essential if you want to safeguard your business, but where to begin?

From big construction firms to local estate agents, Linten Technologies provide tailored IT support for clients in the property sector. We tap into the specific needs of the industry, and can support your business in three core areas:

Communications

Excellent communication is essential to your success. Whether you're corresponding with customers, clients or suppliers, you need a strong network in place to ensure you can offer a fast, reliable service.

Linten provide secure, high-speed solutions for VoIP, private networks, and email systems – whether you have a single site, multiple offices or a team always on the move.

Security

The data that your business relies on is like gold to your average cybercriminal - hackers regularly target property companies in order to steal this valuable information.

Keeping this information secure is vital to both your operations and reputation, especially as GDPR and associated penalties for non-compliance come into view. Linten are specialists in this arena, protecting you from threats like ransomware and data theft.

Ongoing support

It's always reassuring to know an expert has your back. If you're experiencing IT issues or wondering how to improve the efficiency of your network, Linten can help.

Our team offer proactive IT support, enhancing your system and showing you how to get the most out of technology. In doing so, we help to protect your reputation and ensure your business and relationships run smoothly.

For tailored IT support, Linten are the answer. We work with operators, developers, estate agents and more, so understand the concerns that drive your industry.
